Tanzanian Force Invades Uganda

KAMPALA, Sept. 17 (UPI)—Uganda said tonight that a force of 1,000 Tanzanians had invaded the country through the border with Kenya and clashed with Ugandan troops in a fourth town in an bid to delay the election of Idi Amin as President.

A Ugandan spokesman said the force had taken prisoners of war. He said the "mercenaries" were the invaders.

He said one of the main reasons for the attack was the expulsion of Asians from Uganda.

The spokesman said that the force had taken prisoners of war, including a British pilot, and had taken the towns of Kikiga and Kikiga.

Tanzanian government spokesman issued a statement in Dar es Salaam, denying that any force had invaded Uganda.

He said the fighting was between Ugandan troops and the army. It was an army garrison at a had been taken over by Maj. Gen. Sam

Saidikya, chief of Tanzania's People's Defense Forces, said, "This is one of those things that is always going on in Uganda and perhaps [Ugandan President] Idi Amin is trying to look for scapegoats."

The Ugandan spokesman said the force was within 18 miles of Mbarara, adding that "strong reinforcements" had been sent to the area. He said that a fourth town, Mbarara, 160 miles west of here, also had come under attack and that the army barracks there was surrounded. A battalion is based there.

Troops within the barracks, together with reinforcements which had been sent in, were fighting hard to repulse the enemy," the spokesman said.

There was no word on casualties, partly because of communication difficulties, the Ugandan announcement said.

The spokesman added: "Despite all these developments, the government wishes to assure the members of the general public that the Ugandan armed forces are capable of containing the situation, and therefore, the public should continue with its normal business."

Israeli Troops Leave Lebanon; Guerrillas Reject Beirut Curbs

Premier Later Denies Ultimatum Was Issued

BEIRUT, Sept. 17 (UPI)—The Palestinian guerrilla leadership announced today that it was rejecting Lebanese Army demands that would restrict the movement of guerrillas in Lebanon. But a few hours later, Premier Saeb Salam denied that an ultimatum had been issued to the guerrillas.

"We should always maintain mutual understanding with our Palestinian brothers and safeguard their interests and noble objectives," he said.

It appeared probable, however, that even if the Lebanese Army had issued an ultimatum to the guerrillas, it had made some kind of overture to the Palestinians proposing that the regulations governing them be modified.

The Palestine News Agency, which speaks for the guerrilla groups, earlier today reported: "Since the Lebanese Army communiqué was in flat contradiction to the rulings of the Cairo agreement, it was rejected by the revolution."

The army communiqué demanded that the guerrillas move out of all Lebanese villages and banned their appearance in public places in uniforms and carrying their weapons, the agency said.

60 Terrorists Killed In 2-Day Operation

TEL AVIV, Sept. 17 (UPI)—All Israeli armored and mechanized infantry withdrew from southern Lebanon today, ending a more than 27-hour mission against Arab guerrillas, the Israeli military command said.

It reported that 60 guerrillas had been killed and "several" captured. Lebanese soldiers also sustained casualties, the command said, putting Israeli losses at three soldiers killed and six wounded.

It said that 16 villages had been raided by three armored columns and that 150 bunkers and other guerrilla structures were destroyed. Two bridges across the Litani River and 10 guerrilla concentrations were hit by attacking planes, and the bridges were destroyed, the command said. Earlier it said that 130 houses were demolished.

Weapons of all types were captured, including Soviet-built rockets, mines and ammunition, Israel said.

In Beirut, an army spokesman said that Lebanese troops had harried the Israeli armored forces as they were withdrawing today. He added that the pullout had been slow because the Israelis had taken damaged equipment with them.

"Our forces are still fighting the withdrawing enemy troops," he said.

[Official Lebanese casualty figures were given as 61 dead, wounded or missing, including 17 soldiers and 8 civilians dead.]

The pullout brought the Israeli soldiers home in time for Yom Kippur, the holiest day of the year for Jews. The holiday began at sunset.

As the units began pulling out, Premier Golda Meir resolved in a holiday message that Israel would fight the guerrillas and those who help them.

"We are firmly resolved to fight terror and those who lend it a hand everywhere," she said. "Israel will know how to safeguard its citizens and people at any time."

The tanks and infantry troops riding in half-tracks crossed the 50-mile cease-fire line into Lebanon yesterday, accompanied by artillery and air support.

Called Biggest Strike

The strike was the biggest yet against guerrilla strongholds in Lebanon. The number of troops deployed and the area of military operations of Israeli newspapers said.

It also marked one of the biggest skirmishes with Lebanese Army units since the 1948 war. The command said four Lebanese tanks had been destroyed.

Two correspondents who accompanied the westernmost of the three armored columns said their units had encountered stiff resistance on the return to Israel from Jouya, the northernmost point of the column's advance, 12 miles from the frontier.

They said that the unit had been ambushed several times with small arms and bazookas but that none of the Israeli vehicles had been destroyed. Security rules prevent stating the size of the unit.

Refueling Stop

Half the vehicles, including half-tracks and jeeps, ran out of gasoline at one point and stopped at a gasoline station where the soldiers either bought or took gasoline and cold drinks from a station attendant, the correspondents said.

When the unit entered Jouya yesterday, the town appeared deserted. But halfway down the main street, the column was ambushed and "all hell broke loose," one correspondent said.

Two soldiers ran from one half-track, carrying explosives, and planted them against buildings. The explosions collapsed fire buildings.

The correspondents said the Israelis had chased the guerrillas wherever they spotted them. "The (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Egypt Attacks Israeli Thrust as Barbarism

CAIRO, Sept. 17 (Reuters)—Egypt today denounced Israel's attack on Lebanon as "barbaric" and accused the Israelis of using the Munich killing of Israeli sportsmen as an excuse to crush the Palestinian guerrillas.

An official government statement in Cairo also attacked the United States for helping Israeli aggression and called on all Arab states to reconsider their attitude toward Washington.

Failure of the Arab world to react adequately to the Israeli attack was criticized in the influential Egyptian newspaper Al-Ahram today by its editor-in-chief, Mohammed Hassanein Heikal.

Mr. Heikal, a close friend of President Anwar Sadat, said in a front-page article that the Arab world hardly seemed to exist while Lebanon was "facing a hurricane of fire alone."

"I think not one of us could be proud of the picture of the Arab world yesterday," he said. "Egypt was following with great

Hijacked SAS Jet Landed at Madrid

Spain Is Weighing Extradition of 9 Croatians

MADRID, Sept. 17 (Reuters)—A Spanish military judge today began interrogating nine Croatian extremists to decide if they should stand trial here for their role in the hijacking of a Scandinavian jet—or be sent back to Sweden.

The nine, who include the two convicted assassins of Yugoslavia's ambassador to Sweden and four other prisoners freed early yesterday as ransom for the plane's 77 passengers, landed at Madrid aboard the hijacked DC-9 yesterday and were taken into custody. The plane's crew of four and its passengers were released to Spanish police.

Swedish Premier Olof Palme said last night his government would seek the extradition of the nine, all members of the rightist Ustaashi group opposed to President Tito and a federal Yugoslav.

But a Spanish military judge handling the case here, Air Force Col. Sanchez Sanjuan, said there could be no decision on this until he had taken statements from the nine men.

Interrogation Begins

He summoned them from their cells at police headquarters—where they are being held under close guard—and through an interpreter began questioning them at the Air Ministry. He said the interrogation was likely to last at least until tomorrow.

The judge said he was first trying to establish whether the three Croatian hijackers and their three companions—four of whom were armed until they surrendered their pistols when they gave themselves up here—should be arraigned on criminal charges, including air piracy.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (WP)—Funds for the Watergate espionage operation were kept in a special account at the Committee for the Re-election of the President under the control of the principal assistants of former campaign manager John N. Mitchell, The Washington Post has learned.

The Mitchell assistants, all of whom still hold policy-making positions on a high level in President Nixon's re-election campaign, were among 15 persons who had access to the secret fund of more than $300,000 earmarked for sensitive political projects.

Included in those projects was the espionage against the Democrats, for which seven persons, in-

'Serious Situation' Developing

Reds' Heaviest Artillery Moved South, Hits Vietnam Coast Post

SAIGON, Sept. 17 (UPI).—Communist forces who moved their heaviest artillery more than 50 miles deeper into South Vietnam than previously known launched major attacks on a district headquarters and surrounding outposts on the central coast, military spokesmen said today.

Military sources said "a serious situation" was developing in the Mo Duc-Fin sector 310 miles northeast of Saigon in Quang Ngai Province.

In the air war, U.S. jets set fire to fuel, ammunition and storage facilities in raids near Hanoi yesterday and shot down the 16th MIG of the war, but stayed away from the North Vietnamese capital itself, the U.S. command announced today.

Americans in Hanoi

A delegation of Americans is in Hanoi to escort home three U.S. airmen being released from prisoner of war camps. The closest planes came to Hanoi in the attacks was 16 miles, the command reported. Eight targets were hit, at points ranging from 16 miles southwest of Hanoi to 60 miles northwest, the U.S. announcement said.

The U.S. command also announced the loss of five American aircraft, two over South Vietnam, but said all 10 crewmen were rescued.

The U.S. command said an American Army sergeant was killed yesterday in a mortar barrage at Mo Duc and an Air Force reconnaissance plane was downed today one mile to the east. Both crewmen were rescued but one was wounded, spokesmen said.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said 113 Communist soldiers were slain yesterday in heavy fighting around the Ba To district headquarters 12 miles southwest of Mo Duc. Two government soldiers were killed and 14 wounded.

Barrage After Dark

After dark, a barrage of 70 rounds of artillery and rocket fire hit a ranger camp one mile to the southwest, wounding eight. Military sources said the 130-mm artillery pieces, with a range of 17 miles, were being used in the region for the first time. They previously were used 50 to 75 miles to the northwest in the Que Son Valley.

Communist attackers reached the barbed wire perimeter at Mo Duc before being beaten back. An armored relief column pushing toward the town was stalled by heavy Communist fire today.

The threatened region is less than 15 miles south of the provincial capital of Quang Tri City and just above the border with Binh Dinh Province, considered the least pacified in South Vietnam.

South Vietnamese command spokesmen said that despite the onslaught of Typhoon Flossie, government forces yesterday killed at least 500 North Vietnamese troops in three clashes in and around the newly recaptured Citadel at Quang Tri City. Spokesmen said South Vietnamese marines lost 11 dead and 46 wounded in the fighting.

Hanoi Cites Raid Damage

HONG KONG, Sept. 17 (AP).—North Vietnam's Foreign Ministry yesterday reported many economic installations destroyed or severely damaged when waves of U.S. bombers and fighter bombers hit Hanoi, the port city of Haiphong and other major North Vietnamese areas Thursday.

The report, broadcast by Radio Hanoi, also said "hundreds" of North Vietnamese were killed and wounded in what it termed "massive" air raids.

PRESIDENTIAL BRIEF—Dr. Henry Kissinger briefing President Nixon in the White House Saturday on the secret Paris peace talks and the trade negotiations in Moscow.

Kissinger Reports on Soviet Talks

(Continued from Page 1) about $11 billion, on which the United States sought return of about $800 million and the Soviet Union reportedly counter-offered about $800 million. The major issue has been the terms and length of repayment.

He said similarly that there has been "very major progress" on terms for granting most-favored-nation trade status to the Soviet Union, and also progress on completing a maritime accord on shipping arrangements for expanded trade.

Mr. Kissinger said there was also "a satisfactory meeting of the minds" on extension of U.S. trade credits to the Soviet Union, and on joint development of natural resources in the Soviet Union by private American capital.

Unrest in Congress

The Nixon administration, however, is now facing a rising tide of warnings that Congress will block all the trade accords with the Soviet Union unless it abandons exit taxes of up to $30,000 on Jews and others seeking to emigrate.

Mr. Kissinger, in answer to questions about the "Russian ransom" demand, said, "we raised this question in a number of ways."

He did not discuss the Soviet response, but the thrust of Mr. Kissinger's general comments on trade suggested to some listeners that he expected some compromise to be found on the Jewish question to permit the trade agreements to proceed.

Gorchko Leaves Prague

PRAGUE, Sept. 17 (Reuters).—The Soviet minister of defense, Marshal Andrei Gorchko, returned to Moscow yesterday, Czechoslovak news agency reported. Marshal Gorchko took part in the "Shield-72" Warsaw Pact maneuvers held on Czechoslovak territory which ended yesterday.

Kissinger indicated that the Soviet Union has proposed starting the troop limitation discussions next year after preliminary European security talks are under way. Mr. Kissinger said that his Moscow discussions of nuclear arms limitations gave him the hope "that the next round of SALT may move even faster than the first round of SALT."

Is the most optimistic projection that any U.S. official has made. Mr. Kissinger also indicated that President Nixon, after the Nov. 7 election, plans a trip to Western Europe to "resume most intense consultations with our European friends" on reinforcing the Atlantic alliance, which Mr. Kissinger called "the cornerstone of the whole structure of peace."

They were more elaborate than at any time airport veterans could remember. But Mr. Zayyat, accompanied by his wife, seemed unperturbed as he was greeted by British officials.

In London, Mr. Zayyat is expected to confer with Britain's foreign secretary on prospects for a political settlement in the Middle East and Egypt's request to buy arms from Britain.

"The amazing thing was that the people were not hostile," Lt. Charles said. "It was like a movie almost, with people standing around when someone drops from the sky. They took me to a village and gave me some dry clothes, cigarettes and stuff like that."

Lt. Charles said that he had observed the conditions of about 50 other American prisoners of war in his four years of captivity. "The health level is good considering the length of time and the conditions under which they've held here. They're just as healthy as I am," he said.

Maj. Elias said, "I lived a group with six other men. They're all with the exception of physical injuries they had from their shoot-down or their election—they're all in as good shape as I am physically."

"We've thrown away food because we couldn't eat it—there was too much of it—more than enough food. In my group we all had more than adequate clothing. We had plenty of blankets. Our living conditions were good."

Israel to Investigate Security at Olympics

JERUSALEM, Sept. 17 (UPI).—Premier Golda Meir has appointed a three-man inquiry commission to probe the security measures mounted for the Israeli Olympic team, her office said today.

The commission, headed by former Police Commissioner Ephraim Kippel, is to submit its findings by Sept. 20.

Mrs. Meir appointed the commission following reports Israel had been warned against a possible Arab guerrilla attack on its sportsmen but failed to take preventive action.

They were informed Sept. 4 that they were to be released, two days after the government announced that it was releasing the three as a goodwill gesture.

The three men were interviewed in a downtown government office, where they arrived by Chinese-built truck from an undisclosed house in Hanoi where they have been living pending their release.

They spoke in firm and matter-of-fact tones. Their weight and general health appeared normal.

The men expressed pleasure at seeing another American. After the formal interview, based on questions that had been submitted to North Vietnamese authorities

Maj. Elias, who was shot down April 20, 1972, said he, too, exercised regularly and had received prompt medical treatment for occasional minor flare-ups of diarrhea and ringworm. None of the three experienced serious illness while in captivity, they said.

Israeli Army Pulls Out of Lebanon

(Continued from Page 1) Israeli apparently went out of their way to get guerrillas, even if there were only three or four of them," they reported.

Orders Against Looting

They said the soldiers received orders during preparations for the mission not to fire at civilians and not to loot.

On the road to and from targets, some villagers waved to the soldiers, while others watched them anxiously or ignored them. One field worker shouted "Shalom" at a passing unit, the correspondent said.

The last armed incursion into Lebanon before this weekend began Feb. 28 and lasted for three days. At least 10 guerrillas were killed.

The new drive followed by little more than 24 hours the killing of two Israeli soldiers by infiltrating Arab guerrillas Thursday.

Objective Defined

An Israeli official said it had not been Israel's purpose to seize ground and hold it. "We had the terrorists in mind, but the Lebanese Army decided to put up a show, a stronger show than up till now."

The military command said earlier that "the clash between the Lebanese Army and the Lebanese units that intervened in the Israeli anti-guerrilla action showed opposition and opened fire."

Cairo Aide Flies To London Talks

LONDON, Sept. 17 (AP).—Egypt's foreign minister, Mohamed Hassan Zayyat, arrived for talks today amid a major security alert over reports of a plot to kill him.

Police said an overheard telephone conversation indicated that an attempt would be made to shoot Mr. Zayyat after his plane arrived from Rome at Heathrow Airport.

Several cars sped up to the foreign minister's plane as it landed. He climbed into a black limousine and was almost immediately driven off to his hotel.

Security was more elaborate than at any time airport veterans could remember. But Mr. Zayyat, accompanied by his wife, seemed unperturbed as he was greeted by British officials.

Lebanon did not participate in the 1967 Middle East war and it fought only minor skirmishes with the Israelis during the 1948 war. Clashes since then have been rare and small-scale.

The Israeli armed forces chief of staff, Gen. David Elazar, said in a television interview from the combat area that "the infrastructure of the guerrilla base the staging areas and bases, were eradicated and destroyed."

"It was not a mere reprisal action. This is part of our war against saboteurs. The reaction of the terrorists was immediate flight. Had they not fled, they would have taken more casualties."

result of "grave injuries and Israeli persecution of the Palestinian people."

In committing its aggression, Israel is relying on the help of the United States, which challenged the world community by using its veto at the United Nations against a resolution condemning Israel's aggression, the statement said.

Lebanon Saluted

"Egypt salutes the heroic Lebanese people and armed forces and is certain that the Arab countries will not share their responsibility of backing the brotherly Lebanese people to confront the criminal aggression," the statement said. It called on other countries to face their responsibility toward the Israeli aggression and stop it.

The English-language Egyptian newspaper said in an editorial that it was possible for Israel to invade Lebanon "because it has U.S. arms, U.S. money, U.S. political support and U.S. approval to do virtually what it likes."

"The U.S. veto has made the United Nations powerless to act, although Israel's latest invasion of Lebanon is clearly a case which calls for the strongest UN action."

"Faced with this situation, the Arabs can have no hope in the UN."

"That body has passed resolutions which, if implemented, would give justice to the Arabs. But implementation is an impossibility as long as the United States blocks every move for justice."

Offer by Libya

Meanwhile, Libya tonight offered to rush troops into Lebanon to help the Lebanese Army against Israel's attack, according to a report by the Middle East News Agency here.

The agency said that Libya's leader Col. Muammar Qadhafi, sent a message to President Sadat of Egypt to inform him that Libyan forces are ready to move now to Lebanon for defense alongside the Lebanese Army.

Col. Qadhafi had received a message from President Sadat's office in Cairo, the agency said.

It was their second meeting in as many days. Last night they met for more than three hours.

A government spokesman said that they also discussed in today's meeting the formation of committees to study steps for implementing the two nations' plan to merge within a year.

In Canberra, a police guard was placed on the Yugoslav Embassy. All 16 casualties were caused by the first explosion at the Adriatic Center. The second bomb found earlier at the Adriatic office, but it went off before explosive experts could arrive.

Spain Weighs Fate of Croat Hijackers

The Spanish government, which deployed air force marksmen near the aircraft, was understood to be anxious to avoid the kind of shooting that occurred at a Munich airport recently in which Palestinian terrorists, their Israeli hostages and a German policeman were killed.

Domestic Flight Three of the Croats seized the Scandinavian Airlines System jet Friday afternoon during a domestic flight from Gothenburg to Stockholm and ordered it to fly to Malmö.

They demanded the release of seven members of the Yugoslav movement. The hijackers had threatened to blow up the plane and the people aboard it unless their demands were met. The negotiations for the release of the prisoners took all night and, just before the final 51 passengers were allowed off the plane, the hijackers made an unexpected demand for 500,000 Swedish crowns (about $100,000) which was met.

The aircraft and the four crew who had been on it from the start of the drama finally left Malmö with the hijackers and six prisoners—one refused to go—just before 0800 GMT yesterday.

Miscarriage of Justice 'Whitewash' Nixon in Wiretap Probe

By Douglas E. Kneeland

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—President Richard Nixon yesterday ordered a "whitewash" of the federal grand jury in the alleged June 17 of the Democratic Headquarters at the Hotel, the grand jury indicted White House aides who were set by the federal grand jury in the morning hours on having conspired to the offices.

His first reaction to the news was that the Democratic presidential campaign was a "whitewash" of this capital to make the strongest condemnation of the Republican opponent. The first count to the federal grand jury in the morning hours on having conspired to the offices.

And I suggest that a miscarriage of justice was ordered by the White House to spare them embarrassment in an election year.

Later, the Justice Department vigorously countered Sen. McGovern's charges, describing them as "a serious attack on the integrity of the 22 good citizens of the District of Columbia," who served on the grand jury.

It said the department's investigation of the Watergate case had been "among the most extensive and far reaching" with 330 agents involved in the operation.

Before reading a prepared statement for the television cameras, Sen. McGovern said that he had interrupted what was supposed to have been a day of rest after two weeks of intensive campaigning from coast to coast because he thought the implications of the Justice Department's announcement that the indictments have ended the investigation of the case were of "the gravest importance."

"I think it goes right to the heart of the moral standards of this nation," he said. "There has been a growing pattern of immorality associated with the Russian wheat deal, with the ITT case, with the handling of campaign funds, and now the latest revelation with regard to the invasion of the Democratic Headquarters at the Watergate."

"The questions left unanswered by that grand jury are staggering," Sen. McGovern said.

He went on to list them as:

"Who ordered this act of political espionage?"

"Who paid for it?"

"Who contributed the $114,000 that went from the Nixon campaign committee to the bank account of one of the men arrested, and that paid off the spies for their work?"

"Who received the memoranda of the tapped telephone conversations?"

He said that the "Nixon administration asks us to believe that the Watergate five, plus two lowly White House operatives, conspired to spy on the Democratic party all on their own, with no authority from above."

"The administration, with its total control of the grand jury," he went on, "asks us to ignore the diversion of $114,000 in secret campaign funds into the hands of this political espionage squad."

Sen. McGovern, as he has traveled around the country, has been increasingly sharp in his criticisms of the Nixon administration. He and his advisers are known to believe that they must get Mr. Nixon to engage in some political dialogue, rather than maintain his stance of being above the battle, if they are to make up what appears to be a large Republican lead.

Republican Doorbell Ringers Open Campaign Across U.S.

By Linda Charlton

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 17 (AP)—The director of President Nixon's re-election campaign pushed the doorbell at 4063 Brownsville Road in suburban Brentwood yesterday—and then stood on the porch, waiting for a response.

"It doesn't look like anybody's home," said his wife, Barbara MacGregor, who had flown here with her husband, Clark MacGregor, for the ceremonial start of the Republican voter-registration campaign.

But just as the group—the MacGregors and a cluster of local campaign officials and workers—was about to turn away, James Weidely came to the door. Mr. MacGregor smiled and said: "Hello, I'm Clark MacGregor" and went on to identify himself and explain his visit.

Mr. MacGregor is one of about 75 campaign "spokesmen" who were announced as taking part in the coast-to-coast start of the "voter identification, registration and get-out-the-vote effort" that is described flatly in one piece of re-election committee literature as "the No. 1 priority" of the campaign.

Among the scheduled canvassers were most of the President's family—Mrs. Pat Nixon in Queens, N. Y., Tricia Nixon Cox in Columbus, Ohio, Julie Nixon Eisenhower in Philadelphia—10 senators, eight cabinet members and other White House and Republican party aides.

Frederic V. Malek, the deputy campaign director whose responsibilities include both the drive and the volunteers needed to carry it out, discussed earlier last week some of the reasons this will be a "major thrust" on the campaign.

First, "the President has announced he is not going to do a great deal of campaigning," and second, the role of the media has been downgraded. This was already evident in the recent transfer by Mr. MacGregor of more than $3 million previously earmarked for media to the recruitment and registration drives.

Perhaps because of Mr. Nixon's 30-point lead in the polls, the canvassing is seen as vital to "reinforce" the loyalty of Nixon supporters who might otherwise not bother to register, or vote, on the basis that victory was assured.

To carry out this door-to-door and telephone-to-telephone effort, the Republicans hope to recruit a million volunteers.

In Brentwood, Mr. Weidely, like almost everyone else the MacGregor team reached in 30 minutes of canvassing along Brownsville Road, was already a convinced Nixon voter—or at any rate, he and the others said they were.

As Mr. Weidely spoke, Norbert J. Ehland, the Brentwood re-election campaign chairman, marked a green computer sheet he carried in a file folder—circling the letter "R" for "Republican." This means that little further effort will be expended on Mr. Weidely by the local workers.

The same would be true if Mr. Ehland had circled "A" for "Against Nixon," but the "R" for undecided voters' names go onto a mailing list.

"That's Politics"
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17 (AP).—Julie Eisenhower, here yesterday for the voter registration drive, was asked whether it was nonpartisan. She replied: "Oh, no. The first question I ask is whether they're going to support my father. If they aren't, we let the other side register them because we're trying to get out the potential vote for my father."

Then she giggled and added: "That's politics."

Heroin Scarce On East Coast, Crackdown Cited

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP).—The federal narcotics bureau head said today that there is a general heroin shortage of "unprecedented extent and duration" in all U.S. East Coast cities.

John E. Ingersoll, director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, said in a report that the shortage is directly related to a crackdown on major drug-trafficking organizations on both sides of the Atlantic.

"We are hitting them where it hurts and we can see the results in the shortage in the major East Coast cities," he said.

He said the bureau and foreign and domestic law-enforcement agencies made a total of 7,771 arrests in the fiscal year that ended June 30 and won convictions in 96 percent of the federal cases and 98 percent in state cases.

A total of 5,107 pounds of heroin, 675 pounds of cocaine, 154,509 pounds of marijuana, 8,275 pounds of hashish and 307 million dosage units of other dangerous drugs were seized by the bureau in that period, he said.

Mine in Bay of Naples
NAPLES, Sept. 17 (AP).—A World War II mine was found floating Saturday in the Bay of Naples. Naval experts exploded it after it was reported by the Naples-Capri ferry. It was the second mine in two months found just off Capri.

Mr. Tuttle said that the venture would cost an estimated $14 million, to be borne entirely by the industries that participate. Large exhibition booths will cost a company about $40,000, a fee that will include two suites for exhibition personnel and all food costs. Smaller booths will cost about $25,000, Mr. Tuttle said.

Locative Markets
The cruise will cover "the most lucrative markets in that part of the world," Mr. Tuttle said. The tentative itinerary includes North Africa, the Soviet Union, Greece, Italy, Portugal, the Netherlands, England, Turkey, Romania, Yugoslavia, Spain, France and Germany. Three days are planned in each port.

Mr. Tuttle said that contacts with the Soviet Embassy had been good and that a visit to the Soviet Union was approved. The port of call would be Odessa on the Black Sea.

The trade cruise will begin with conversion of the Queen Elizabeth 2 in New York, where crews will embark on Oct. 15, 1974, on a three-and-a-half-day trip to Galveston, Texas, to erect the exhibits.

At Galveston, a cruise is scheduled for government and industrial leaders and the exhibitors. A five-day Atlantic crossing is planned.

Nixons' Net Worth Increased $168,218 While in Office

By Carroll Kilpatrick

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP).—President and Mrs. Nixon have listed their net worth at $765,118, an increase of $168,218 since he took office almost four years ago.

The net worth increase is a result of income from his salary, which has been used for home improvements or deposited in the bank, a White House statement said yesterday.

Vice-President and Mrs. Agnew issued a statement at the same time saying that their net worth is $198,350, an increase of $87,166 in four years.

Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern has said his net worth is $271,600.

Still to Report
Democratic vice-presidential nominee Sargent Shriver has promised to announce his assets but has not yet done so. He is regarded as the wealthiest of the four candidates.

The Nixon assets "consist only of cash, savings bonds, life insurance, personal property and real estate," the White House said.

Mr. Nixon receives a yearly salary of $200,000 and an expense account of $50,000.

He owns two adjoining homes at Key Biscayne, Fla., a home in San Clemente, Calif., and a lot in Whittier, Calif. They are valued at $809,747, but they are mortgaged for $518,028.

The President has $363,585 in cash, savings certificates and U.S. savings bonds. The cash surrendered value of his life insurance is $4,811 and his furniture and other personal possessions are valued at $55,113, the statement said.

The Nixon assets total $1,233,256 while liabilities total $513,138.

After the President's inauguration, the Nixons sold their New York apartment on Fifth Avenue for $328,000 and purchased the San Clemente property for $340,000.

The gross gain from sale of the apartment, which the Nixons bought nearly six years before, was estimated at the time at about $184,000.

The Agnews listed their assets as follows: cash in savings and checking accounts, $67,250; cash value of life insurance and civil retirement, $25,000; real estate in Baltimore County, $15,000; equity in Queste Verde condominium, St. Croix, Virgin Islands, $14,000; furniture and personal property, $15,000, and $82,000 in a trust fund.

Nixon Endorsed
By Union for
Utility Workers
MIAMI BEACH, Sept. 17 (AP).—The executive board of the 85,000-member Utility Workers of America Union announced its support of President Nixon for re-election yesterday and the President promptly telephoned to express his appreciation.

"We feel we have to give the President a chance to extend a hand of friendship to labor," Harold T. Rieley, national president of the AFL-CIO union, said.

Mr. Rieley said the union's executive board, which has never before endorsed a Republican, could not support George McGovern because of his "complete inconsistency."

"It's a question of trust," Mr. Rieley said. "Frankly, after looking at the record of the last couple of months we have just come to the conclusion that McGovern can't be trusted."

The union represents workers from utility companies across the country.

Admits Extortion Bids:
Q-2 and an Airline
NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (Reuters).—A suburban New York shoe store owner pleaded guilty Friday to making a $350,000 bomb threat against the Queen Elizabeth luxury liner while it was in mid-Atlantic last May.

Joseph Landis, 48, told a federal district court judge: "I telephoned Cunard Lines and talked to (Vice-President Charles) Dickson and told him there were bombs on the ship and they would go off if I didn't get the money."

Mr. Landis also pleaded guilty to a similar extortion attempt against American Airlines in June, when he threatened to blow up some of their terminals and planes unless they paid him $300,000. He was arrested June 21 when he went to pick up ransom money.

$600,000 Air Award
MIAMI, Sept. 17 (AP).—A circuit court jury has awarded $600,000 to the parents of Clyde Knapp, 17, who was killed with one of his two brothers when an airliner crashed in a Miami street. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Knapp were awarded $1.8 million in 1970 in the death of their son Clifford, 15, in the crash.

PATEK PHILIPPE

The non-watch

You choose a Patek Philippe as you choose a precious jewel: for the sheer enjoyment of owning something beautiful and rare, an object fashioned patiently by the hands of dedicated craftsmen. Such an object can be a source of joy to you and your children and theirs. It will also be an excellent timekeeper. You can take that for granted. But people who merely need to know the time of day will choose a watch—not a Patek Philippe.

Adm. Hewitt, 85, Led U.S. Navy in World War II Invasions

MIDDLEBURY, Vt., Sept. 17 (NYT).—Adm. E. Kent Hewitt, 85, one of the last surviving naval leaders of World War II, died Friday in a hospital here. He retired from the Navy in 1949 after 46 years of service.

Adm. Hewitt commanded the naval arm in the invasion of North Africa in November, 1942. He transported 35,000 soldiers, 35,000 sailors and 100 ships from Norfolk to Africa through 3,000 miles of submarine-filled waters.

Seven months later, he commanded the operation at Sicily, where he landed more than 100,000 troops from 1,350 ships.

On Sept. 9, 1945, Adm. Hewitt commanded naval forces attacking near Salerno. His major operation was the invasion of southern France in mid-August of 1944. The operation involved 400,000 men and 974 ships and smaller craft in a highly complicated procedure that covered much of the Mediterranean.

He was born in Hackensack, N.J., Feb. 11, 1887. He graduated from the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., with the class of 1907.

During World War I, he commanded a destroyer patrolling for submarines and mines and escorting convoys of troops and supplies.

Subsequently, he returned to the academy as an instructor in mathematics and served as its head from 1933 to 1936.

Later, he was named commanding officer of the Naval Ammunition Depot at Puget Sound in Washington. After the war, in 1945, Adm. Hewitt helped investigate the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

From 1946 to 1947 he was a consultant at the Naval War College in Newport, R. I.

Lord Parker

LONDON, Sept. 17 (AP).—Lord Parker of Waddington, 73, a former Lord Chief Justice who was deposed as a reactionary by liberal reformers and praised as a humanitarian by some prisoners, died Friday.

Lord Parker, who retired in 1971 after 12 years as England's senior judge, was known for controversial public statements on the need for tough treatment of hardened criminals. Among other steps, he advocated corporal punishment, long sentences and payment by criminals of compensation to their victims.

Men he sentenced often held him in high regard. In 1968, two prisoners presented him with an oil portrait they had painted of him, they said, in recognition of his kindnesses to their families.

The prisoners said: "There are dozens of other prisoners who have had the same. Lord Parker is a very humane man."

Asgeir Asgeirsson

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Sept. 17 (AP).—A former president of Iceland, Asgeir Asgeirsson, 78, died Friday. He was elected president in 1952 and served for four terms, 16 years.

Before he became President, Mr. Asgeirsson was a prominent politician and member of parliament for 29 years. He was minister of finance and premier from 1932 to 1934 and president of parliament in 1931.

Louise A. Boyd

SAN RAFAEL, Calif., Sept. 17 (UPI).—Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Louise A. Boyd, 84, a society hostess who became a polar explorer in the 1930s. She died in San Francisco on Thursday.

She took her first trip to the Arctic in 1926 aboard the icebreaker Hobby and made eight expeditions in all.

In 1927 she became the first woman to set foot on Franz Josef Land in the Arctic. The Danish government named a section of Greenland "Miss Boyd Land" in her honor.

An expert photographer and surveyor, she was chief adviser to the War Department during World War II on the terrain of Greenland and the Spitzbergen Islands.

Vittorio Dellavalle

ROME, Sept. 17 (UPI).—Vittorio Dellavalle, 62, long an Italian television and newsreel cameraman, died yesterday.

Mr. Dellavalle joined United Press International about 10 years ago but was a noted newsreel cameraman long before.

Swiss Guards Get A New Commander

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 17 (AP).—Pope Paul VI has named Lt. Col. Franz Pfytter von Althausen, of Lucerne, as the new commanding officer of the Swiss Guard—the picturesque Vatican military unit.

Col. von Althausen, 51, is the 12th member in his family to head the 450-year-old corps. He succeeded Col. Robert Nünlist, who retired after 15 years of service. The number of Swiss Guards was brought up to 70 last May after shrinking to an all-time low of 51.

Shipping Service To Link Chinese, Canadian Ports

TORONTO, Sept. 17 (NYT).—China will begin its first regular shipping service to North America next year.

Joseph Canton, president of March Shipping Ltd., Montreal, has disclosed Chinese plans to link Canton, Shanghai and Montreal with regular scheduled freight service. It will be one of China's few scheduled services outside of Communist countries.

The Soviet Union, Poland, Cuba, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia already operate regular services to Canadian ports on the St. Lawrence River and now dominate what little is left of Montreal's once booming ocean passenger trade.

Western European ocean-liner operators, discouraged by Montreal's port labor strikes, have either canceled their regular North Atlantic passenger service out of Montreal or moved them to Halifax, N.S.

Mr. Canton's company will represent the China State Shipping Corp. here. He started negotiations for the service shortly after Canada recognized the Peking government in late 1970.

Snow in Swiss Alps

Heavy Security Precautions Taken

Pope Pleads for Church Unity on Visit to Northern Italy

By Paul Hofmann

UDINE, Italy, Sept. 17 (NYT).

—Pope Paul VI, addressing a huge crowd attending the Italian National Eucharistic Congress in this city near Yugoslav frontier last night, made an impassioned plea for worldwide unity of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Pope warned local churches that they would face "a sad fate indeed" if they were to yield "to the temptation of separatism" or self-sufficiency and eventual schism.

The Pontiff, flanked by 16 cardinals and more than 100 bishops, was clearly understood to be alluding to criticisms of Vatican doctrinal decisions and policies by the liberal sector in the Dutch Roman Catholic Church and to other groups of discontented and restless Roman Catholics in various parts of the world.

Pope Paul gave his homily during mass in Udine's vast First of May Square. He arrived here in a helicopter from Venice and the small, historic town of Aquileia on the last leg of his first major trip outside Rome since his 10,000-mile journey to Asia, Australia and Oceania 22 months ago.

Italian government authorities, fearing possible terrorist attacks, had concentrated 3,000 army soldiers in Udine, closing the city center to all vehicular traffic.

Uniformed and plainclothes men from police organizations throughout northern Italy also had been moved into Udine.

Security precautions were tightened after some graffiti had appeared on housewalls earlier this week reading "Fewer Nuns and More Fedayeen!" Leftist extremists and anarchists were believed to have spread such slogans.

The official Italian Communist party, instead, had issued a statement respectfully welcoming Pope Paul to Udine.

Police officers estimated the crowd attending outdoor mass at between 100,000 and 130,000. The organizers asserted that a quarter of a million people had been in the square. Hundreds of priests distributed communion to several thousand worshippers during mass.

The Pope personally gave communion to 50 children and administered confirmation to 100 more.

Threat to Venice

Earlier yesterday, during a five-hour visit to Venice, Pope Paul told its inhabitants that he knew how seriously their city was "threatened in its physical stability" and warned that "Venice city of ideal beauty, must never be corroded by manifestations of aesthetic and moral decadence."

The first pontiff to visit the lagoon city in 172 years, Pope Paul was understood to be alluding to art and films shown earlier this summer during Venice's Biennale exhibition and film festival.

The Pope addressed the people of Venice in St. Mark's Square two hours after arriving by train from Rome and making solar entry into the city by motor launch and gondola.

In his speech, Pope Paul predicted Venice as "one of the cities in the history of civilization" and, referring to air pollution and other environmental threats, exclaimed "Venice must live."

Waters Subside

After high winds, downpour and what looked like the beginning of Venice's dreaded "high water" (acqua alta), the weather was calm today and the sun came out just as the papal jetliner was circling over the city.

Pope Paul had left his summer residence at Castelgandolfo in the hills south of Rome shortly after 7 a.m. and boarded the airline at Ciampino airport on Rome's southern outskirts for the 45-minute flight to Venice.

The Pope, accompanied by his dozen Vatican prelates, alighted at Marco Polo Airport on the mainland on the edge of Venice lagoon. The papal party was launched to city hall near the Rialto and along the Grand Canal to the domed Madonna della Salute Church.

All of Venice's churchbells were pealing and ships at anchor in the lagoon greeted the Pope with the sound of their sirens and of water.

Frenchman Is Freed In U.S. in Drug Case

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (UPI).—A French national sentenced four years ago to eight years in prison for smuggling heroin was ordered released from prison Friday on the grounds that he was not aware he was carrying narcotics.

Jean-Marc Montoya, 35, Paris, was retried before Judge Morris E. Lasker and pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to smuggle watches into New York from Geneva.

Judge Lasker, who convicted and sentenced Montoya four years ago, resented him the time he has already served in prison. He said throughout his trial he thought he was smuggling watches as a way of paying off a debt to a French loan shark.

3 Men Held, Motive Not Clear

Bomb Found on Venezuela Jet From Beirut

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Sept. 17 (AP).

—A time bomb was found on a Venezuelan jetliner and disarmed today after an emergency landing on Cyprus prompted by an anonymous telephone warning.

Eighty-six passengers and 11 crew members hurriedly left the plane by sliding down escape chutes.

Police said the bomb, a plastic package with a timer, was found in a rear toilet. The bomb was later exploded harmlessly.

The plane, a Venezuelan Airlines DC-8, was on a flight from Beirut to Rome, Madrid and Caracas. Nicosia airport officials said the bomb was timed to go off as the plane was approaching Rome.

The plane was 20 minutes out of Beirut when its captain was informed by Beirut airport that it had received an anonymous telephone call about the bomb.

Lebanese police arrested three men in Beirut in connection with the incident. They were identified as Dr. Atif Harkous, Hussein Harkous and Andan Harkous. All were believed to be Lebanese and Hussein was reported to be the doctor's brother, Adnan his cousin.

Atif was scheduled to fly on the plane but decided not to at the last minute. Later authorities received a tip that a bomb was aboard the plane. Informants said police believe Hussein made the telephone call from Adnan's shop in Beirut.

The motive for the planned bombing was unclear, the informants said.

Midair Explosion

MANILA, Sept. 17 (UPI).—President Ferdinand E. Marcos ordered stricter security at Manila's international and domestic airports today following a midair explosion which forced a domestic airliner with 49 persons aboard to make an emergency landing in the central Philippines.

The explosion ripped a four-by-two-foot hole in the cargo compartment of an Air Manila Fokker Friendship transport and bent one of the two propellers.

The plane, en route from Manila to Tigan City on the north coast of Mindanao, managed to reach Roxas City, 250 miles southeast of Manila, where the pilot made a forced landing. There were no injuries.

Saboteurs, suspected by the military to be urban guerrillas of the Maoist New People's Army, have been bombing private and public buildings and utility installations in recent days. The 14th sabotage-bombing in two months occurred in downtown Manila Friday night, damaging a gasoline station but causing no casualties.

Despite Aid, Growth

Poverty Rising, Not Falling, According to the World Bank

By Edwin L. Dale Jr.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (NYT).

—Despite billions of dollars of foreign aid and "impressive" economic growth in the poor countries, "it is probably true that the world's burden of poverty is increasing rather than declining," the World Bank reported today.

In its annual report, the bank, formally known as the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, emphasized repeatedly that there is great diversity in results among the poor countries, and among groups of people within them, but it said "as a generalization, poverty is probably increasing."

The bank, the largest single dispenser of aid to the poor countries, with $3 billion of development loans last year, said: "This is in part, but by no means wholly, attributable to the continued rapid rate of population growth which dilutes the benefits of development. Aggregate statistics (on economic growth) conceal the gravity of the underlying economic and social problems which are typified by severely skewed income distribution, excessive levels of unemployment, high rates of infant mortality, low rates of literacy, serious malnutrition and widespread ill health."

The Grim Realities

Behind the average statistics, the annual report said, "the grim realities of how life at the lower end of the scale is lived by the poorest among nations and the poorest within nations."

While taking pride in the bank's major role in the effort to help economic development of the poor countries—a doubling of its loans since the period 1964-69—the report said "it is clear" that the bank's loans "can play only a marginal, though critical, role in providing the capital resources required for development."

The annual report was issued in advance of the annual meeting of the bank and the international monetary fund, next week. It contained, as always, a full account of the bank's own financial results, which disclosed a rising volume of loans and showed a profit of $183 million in the fiscal year ended last June 30.

U.S. Move Approved

The report made these other points:

• "Soft," zero-interest loans amounting to $212.5 million to nine countries have been approved but not formally signed pending the long-delayed United States contribution to the international development association, the bank's easy-loan subsidiary.

• The effect on the poor countries of the major change last December in the exchange rates of the dollar and other major currencies turns out to be complicated and ambiguous, with no clear-cut conclusion possible on whether the poor countries as a group were helped or harmed.

• The debt, the annual debt service, of the poor countries continues to mount, and the debt service apparently is accelerating. However, the majority of the less-developed countries "should be able to avoid debt difficulties."

The report was not despairing. It said "progress toward development has been made," and added:

"It is clear that generalizations about developing countries—their prospects or capacity for growth, their potential for expanding trade, or their ability to carry debt—are hazardous."

Each country is unique, with its own particular set of problems and possibilities, both internal and in relation to the world abroad."

Russia Asks UN To Prohibit Use Of Atomic Arms

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 17 (UPI).

—The Soviet Union has submitted a formal proposal to prohibit permanently the use of nuclear weapons, it was announced today.

The proposal was submitted as a new item on the provisional agenda of the 27th session of the General Assembly. It also includes a general repudiation of the use of force in relations between states.

Explaining the Soviet initiative, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko stressed that in particular West Germany's recent agreements with the Soviet Union and with Poland had been particularly favorable developments toward a state of European and international security.

In a special memorandum, he also pointed to the agreement between the Soviet Union and the United States on the limitation of strategic weapons as well as other international agreements limiting the arms race.

Heath, on Visit to Japan, Goes
Sightseeing Before Meetings

By Richard Halloran

TOKYO, Sept. 17 (NYT)—Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain arrived here yesterday for discussions, starting tomorrow, with Premier Kakuei Tanaka on Japan's new China policy, trade issues, monetary reform and a prospective visit to Japan by Queen Elizabeth II.

Mr. Heath spent today sightseeing in the resort area around Nikko, north of Tokyo.

He had a box lunch and beer aboard the train that carried him to Nikko, took tea Japanese style while visiting a 300-year-old shrine and then returned for a dinner given by Foreign Minister Masuyoshi Ohira in a restaurant in Tokyo's huge fish market.

Tomorrow and Tuesday, his itinerary calls for him to see Mr. Tanaka, Foreign Minister Ohira and Japanese and British businessmen and to be received by Emperor Hirohito.

Mr. Heath is the first British prime minister to visit Japan while in office, an event that many politically aware Japanese regard as further recognition of their country's enhanced international political and economic status.

Britain and Western Europe are becoming increasingly important to Japan economically as resistance to Japanese exports to the United States continues to rise.

The Nixon administration has encouraged the Japanese to divert some of those exports to the European Economic Community, which Britain is to join next year.

Like Nixon Talks

The topics of conversation between Mr. Heath and the Japanese leaders appear to be much the same as those between President Nixon and Mr. Tanaka in Hawaii two weeks ago.

The premier is expected to explain his plans for going to China later this month or in October to establish diplomatic relations, which will undoubtedly result in a break in relations between Japan and the Chinese Nationalist government on Taiwan.

Mr. Heath, whose country was among the first to recognize Peking 32 years ago, was reportedly not concerned about that, in contrast to the reservations expressed by Mr. Nixon in Hawaii.

The units, which will be operated and maintained by the airlines, will screen passengers before boarding. The principal objective of the U.S. anti-hijacking program is preventing hijackers from boarding planes.

Environment
Threat Is Seen
In U.S. Parks
While System Said
To Fail Urbanites

By Thomas O'Toole

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (UPI)—U.S. National parks have become so littered with people, cars and commercialism that they pose a threat to the environment.

At the same time, a study done at White House requested said that 20 million acres that make up the 37 national parks are so far from cities that they fail to serve the four out of five Americans who are city dwellers.

To meet the needs of an urban society, the study recommended that the federal government purchase land on the edge of cities for national parks.

Urging "a buy back America" program start at once, the Conservation Foundation study said the United States could finance such a campaign with taxes from "bad sales and exercise tax on trailers, campers and boats, which would realize almost $2 billion a year."

"Delays lead to exorbitant land prices and sometimes to land uses inimical to the future park," the study said.

This problem is most acute in and near metropolitan areas. In view of soaring land costs, the study urged that park land acquisitions already authorized be completed by 1976.

The study said that even with rising land values it would take only $5 billion to buy and develop parks for the 80 million people living in and around the 33 largest U.S. cities.

"This price is not out of line with the urgent need to create recreational opportunities for that segment of the American public least served today by the national parks," the study said.

The study had nothing but criticism for the "wilderness parks have become cluttered with people and cars."

The study recommended that the parks be closed to automobiles and that concessionaires be forced off park grounds. It urged these steps be taken as soon as possible in Yellowstone National Park, Yosemite Valley and on the south rim of the Grand Canyon where overcrowding has become a way of life.

But 15 Nations Make 'Some Progress'

Parley Sidesteps Tough Hijack Pact

By Robert J. Samuelson

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (UPI)—A special international conference ended two weeks of meetings Friday without agreeing to a tough anti-hijacking treaty.

The treaty, pushed by the United States and Canada, would establish steps for taking joint action—such as the suspension of air service—against countries that aid hijackers or saboteurs.

Negotiators for 15 countries, constituting a special subcommittee of the International Civil Aviation Organization, did agree on preliminary procedures to determine whether a country had aided a hijacker or saboteur.

The group voted to refer the matter to the organization's legal committee which could lead to the drafting of a final treaty and the summoning of an international conference to consider the proposal.

"It's an uphill fight all the way," Charles Brower, chief of the U.S. delegation, said. In the two years since Washington proposed the treaty in 1970, he added, "we got absolutely nowhere. In two weeks, we've finally got somewhere."

Nevertheless, he estimated that it would be at least a year before the diplomatic conference could be called. And then, even if the conference adopts the treaty, individual countries would have to ratify it before it could go into effect. That could take another year, he said.

The Airline Pilots Association, meanwhile, said that "some progress" had been made at the meetings, but was highly critical of the pace. "Rather than demonstrating a firm commitment that the international community will not tolerate such crimes, most of the delegates chose again to pass the buck," the pilots' group said in a statement.

Both the Soviet Union and France strongly opposed the treaty. The Soviet Union argued that collective action against any country should be taken only by the United Nations Security Council—where, as a U.S. official noted privately, "they have a veto."

Legal Grounds Cited
France argued against the treaty on legal grounds, but many U.S. observers have attributed the resistance to France's ties with many Arab countries, which have opposed the anti-hijacking treaty.

The conference forwarded a specific proposal on sanctions to the full legal committee. Backed by the United States, Canada, Britain and the Netherlands, the proposal calls for automatic suspension of a country's rights to fly into or over other countries.

The conference reported this draft by a 9-4 vote. The Soviet Union, Egypt, Chile and Tanzania voted against the proposal; France and Spain abstained.

However, the draft takes no position on several key issues. Specifically, it leaves open the question whether stiffer sanctions—the suspension of all air service into a country—can be taken against countries that do not sign the treaty.

There are already treaties that require signatory nations to either extradite or prosecute anyone connected with a hijacking or sabotage incident. The treaties do not provide any penalties against countries that fail to meet the requirements.

A-Armed Terrorists, Thugs
A Possibility, Say Scientists

LONDON, Sept. 17 (AP)—The Mafia or Arab terrorists holding the world for ransom with their own nuclear bomb?

A warning to world governments of just such a threat has come from 220 leading scientists representing 45 countries of East and West, meeting at the 22d Pugwash Conference. They ended six-day talks in Oxford last week.

A physicist who worked on the American atomic bomb before Hiroshima put into plain terms the conference recommendations.

"As more countries go nuclear there will be greater chances of people or groups accumulating, by hijacking or stealing, enough plutonium to develop their own atomic capacity," Prof. Joseph Rotblat said in an interview.

"Then they can hold the world to ransom," he said.

Mr. Rotblat, 63, is secretary-general of the Pugwash Conference which brings leading world scientists together to swap ideas about how best to make life safer in the nuclear age. He heads the physics faculty in the medical school at St. Bartholomew's Hospital in London.

"Scientists from various countries including the United States presented papers suggesting that some sort of Mafia-type organizations could develop their own atomic capacity," Mr. Rotblat said.

"It was during discussion of this that the blackmail factor emerged."

The Pugwash scientists want a new world body to deal with the peril.

And don't forget training.

Italy's Great Color Television War a Raging Political Issue

By Don M. Larrimore

ROME (WP)—Color vanished from Italian television screens last Monday night. It had been there for 17 days, was widely and appreciatively viewed, but it failed to conquer.

In the process, PAL and SECAM became as familiar to Italians as brands of spaghetti.

Still unresolved was the extraordinary controversy which developed the "experimental" period of color transmission in Italy during the Munich Olympic Games. Amid a swirling maze of domestic political infighting, international pressures, bureaucratic bickering and critical economic factors, no one yet could tell when, how or even if color television would be permanently introduced in Italy, the Western world's largest remaining potential market.

Before it's over, a government may fall and the electronic industry may be crippled. Italy's relations with either France or West Germany, or both, will certainly be shaken.

Viewers hoping at last to be able to see the colors of their favorite soccer team on the screen had only a vague government promise to decide "shortly" whether color TV will be permitted.

Of the 11 million television sets in Italy today, only 40,000 can receive color. Almost all of those are in homes in the far north, where viewers tune into color programs from Switzerland and Yugoslavia beamed by transmitters of the West German PAL system. Perhaps 200 sets in the entire country receive the rival French SECAM system.

For six years it has been assumed that Italy would opt for PAL once the government got around to final approval of color on the state-subsidized RAI network, which has ample PAL equipment already installed.

But in Italy, assumptions are often as precarious as government coalitions.

Mr. Pompidou Calls

In late July, French President Georges Pompidou came to call on Premier Giulio Andreotti. Their private meeting in Lucca, near Pisa, touched off a storm of rumors, charges and denials centering on SECAM.

The official communiqué did not mention any decision on color television, but on Aug. 12, Mr. Andreotti announced that Italy's era of color TV would be inaugurated on an "experimental basis" at the opening of the Olympics, with alternating PAL and SECAM transmissions.

Informal samplings in Rome showed an overwhelming preference for PAL's color quality over SECAM's, and commentators complained that experimenting with the French system was ridiculous. Faced with a barrage of charges that he had bowed to Mr. Pompidou's persuasion, pressure or worse, Mr. Andreotti issued a statement saying, "For the sake of correctness, during one day and a half of conversations, this [color TV] subject was touched upon for very few minutes and without any kind of insistence or pressure."

The Extraordinary Controversy Between SECAM and PAL Systems

That failed to damp down the uproar. The largest Catholic weekly in Italy, Famiglia Cristiana, obtained and printed what it said was a secret French diplomatic memorandum prepared for the Lucca meeting which offered Rome tempting economic and political concessions in exchange for adoption of SECAM.

These were said to include removal of all planned French restrictions on imports of Italian wines, support for a Common Market regional development fund which would greatly benefit Italy, concessions on various Italian agricultural exports, and establishment in Rome of a "Mediterranean electronic research center."

"Bribery," shouted the critics. Then Ugo La Malfa announced that he would withdraw his Republican party's support of the 10-week-old government if color television were introduced. Survival of Mr. Andreotti's coalition depends on the Republicans' pledged parliamentary votes. Mr. La Malfa said his party was "absolutely opposed to the introduction of color television in our country at a moment when there are so many more urgent and important economic and social problems to resolve."

He also specifically warned Mr. Andreotti not to adopt SECAM over PAL. Mr. La Malfa's ultimatum still stood Monday night despite the government's temporizing moves.

Next came a broadside from within Mr. Andreotti's coalition: Former President Giuseppe Saragat, whose Social Democrats are the second largest partner in the government, declared that the "true motive" of the Lucca summit was color television, and he branded SECAM a "typical product of the French-Soviet policy with Gaullist inspiration."

Pullout Threat

Later Social Democratic party chief Mario Tanassi warned bluntly that his party would pull out of the government if the "temporary experiment" was in fact the prelude to introduction of SECAM.

PAL has been adopted by 22 countries, SECAM by 14. Every Common Market member except France and Luxembourg has taken the German system, while the French have sold theirs to Monaco, some Arab nations and Eastern Europe. The Soviet Union has adopted an improved version of SECAM.

Among countries still uncommitted are Libya, Tunisia, Greece, Turkey and Spain, as well as several Latin American nations believed to be awaiting Italy's decision—if only in consideration of future exchange of TV programs.

With heat rising steadily as the Olympics neared completion, Mr. Andreotti resorted to the time-tested device of stalling. A cabinet meeting decided that the "experimental" color casts—which were transmitted throughout with no noticeable hitch—would definitely be discontinued with the final Munich ceremony Monday night, and that after further "technical" studies and a parliamentary debate, the choice between PAL and SECAM would be made "in connection with the economic programming" of the nation. That last phrase was familiar from previous governmental promises since 1966.

Monday night the estimated 3,000 Italians who had bought color sets for the Olympics found they could receive only black and white. Their anger was more than shared by manufacturers and retailers, long committed to and counting on PAL.

The National Association of Electrical Industries ran ads in newspapers declaring that if SECAM were adopted, the jobs of 7,000 workers would be jeopardized.

Labor unions rallied against color TV, arguing that it could not reverse the slumps in the domestic appliance industry since the high retail price of about $850 would mean only about 100,000 color sets sold annually against 1.5 million black and white receivers.

Kennedy's "Charisma" in public, responding to teenage squeals and bursts of applause. The 40-year-old Kennedy said that "it just goes to show you what it is to have a famous brother-in-law."

—Sen. McGovern's running mate, Sargent Shriver. Sen. McGovern recalled Wednesday night in Philadelphia that a woman in Pittsburgh earlier that day had "nearly knocked me down, grabbed Sen. Kennedy's hand and said, 'Oh, Senator, we just can't wait until 1978.'"

Did he think many in the crowds—estimated as large as 40,000 in Chicago and 8,000 or more in every other city on the tour—had come to see him rather than Sen. McGovern?

"Oh, well—I-I-I-I think he's uh—got tremendous strength and commitment by a lot of people," Sen. Kennedy replied, somewhat vaguely. "I think it's very special to him. I think it's a result of a lot of different factors and I think it's, you know, really well deserved."

Later, commenting on the headline in the Philadelphia newspaper, Sen. Kennedy said that it was, in his view, Sen. McGovern who "really turns them on" at the rallies.

"I've been around enough at rallies," Sen. Kennedy said, "to know that this is his crowd. They're glad to see me because I'm there for him. It's his group, it's his constituency."

It is also Sen. McGovern whose name is chanted regularly by the audiences who waited for the rallies to begin. The two senators were making their way through a crowd on Philadelphia's Broad Street when four teenagers perched on a window ledge of a bank building yelled out, "Hey, Senator, Hey, George!" The candidate gave them a wave of his arm and they shrieked.

Sen. Kennedy normally deferred to the candidate, walking a few paces behind Sen. McGovern and holding up his hands to try to quiet the crowds when they greeted him.

What if Sen. McGovern should lose?

"I'm realistic enough to know that the day after this election people are going to be looking forward four years and beyond," Sen. Kennedy answered. But he said as well that "a lot of the real exhilaration of campaigning has gone out of it for me. I like to do well, but I'm constantly seeing people in those crowds who have an association with the family."

When he stood to speak, his hands trembling slightly as he held index cards containing his prepared remarks, Sen. Kennedy seemed a carbon copy of the late president John F. Kennedy or Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

He reminded each audience that John Kennedy had addressed a similar rally 12 years earlier in their city and "you gave him your hearts and you gave him your support. John F. Kennedy came from behind to win in 1960," he shouted, "and George McGovern will come from behind to win in 1972."

Minutes later, his introduction over, he would sit and listen to Sen. McGovern say:

"Well, now, how do you follow that act?"

IF YOU ARE STILL FLYING SOME AIRLINE BESIDES TWA IN AMERICA, THIS IS WHAT YOU ARE MISSING.

When we planned TWA's Ambassador Service, we didn't settle for a new carpet and a lick of paint. We ripped out the interiors of a whole fleet of planes. And started again. First we introduced Ambassador Service on our long flights across America.

Then we expanded it to our international flights from Europe to America, the Far East and the Pacific. And now, we're introducing a whole new service on many of our short business flights in America. No other airline does so many of these things in so many places as TWA.

TWA's new L-1011. TWA is adding to its fleet the most modern plane in the world. The L-1011. Its new Rolls-Royce engines are among the most powerful and quietest ever.

747 economy lounge. On all 747 flights across the United States.

707 economy lounge. On nearly every 707 Ambassador flight across the United States. No other airline has it.

New carry-on luggage compartments. On many of our short business flights in America we have introduced new luggage compartments. So you can bring even a full-size suitcase right on board with you.

Choice of movies. You will find a choice of two movies on every movie flight across the United States and across the Atlantic. (A nominal charge is made for movies.)

Twin seats. On 707 Ambassador Service flights you will find the twin seat in economy, and now we have also put them in our 727's for short business flights. If the plane's not full, our twin seat can be three across, two across or even a couch.

Flight Wing One, New York. TWA was the first airline to build its own terminal in New York with customs and immigration facilities to handle today's giant jets. It's the nearest terminal to the International Arrivals Building. And it's exclusive to TWA passengers.

Choice of meals. On Ambassador Service meal flights, you will find a choice of three international meals in economy, five in first class.

Containerized baggage. On Ambassador Service flights across the United States, or across the Atlantic, we guarantee you closed containerized baggage.

TWA's AMBASSADOR SERVICE AND AMBASSADOR EXPRESS. THE MOST COMFORTABLE FLEET OF PLANES IN THE WORLD.

Allis-Chalmers Corporation...

An electrical substation that takes about one-tenth the space

The "mini-sub" — a new land saver for congested metropolitan areas. Imagine shrinking giant substations to about one-tenth their present size. Think how this would help city planners and utilities... make it easier to meet the growing demand for electricity where land is at a premium.

Allis-Chalmers Electrical Products Group is making "mini-sub" stations a reality for American utilities today. Smaller than comparable apparatus of conventional design by nearly 90%, "mini-subs" offer an ideal solution to space limitations in our densely populated cities.

Your particular product and service needs — large or small — now are uniquely Allis-Chalmers manageable under our dedication to Total Customer Service.

In this, our 125th year, we are earning new recognition with innovations in electrical equipment and products for all of industry — products that are very much involved with the cost and quality needs of this generation.

After Success of Textron Issue

Sept. 17 (NYT).—If the success of the Textron International bond issue is a harbinger, the market for dollar-denominated Eurobonds can be expected to be a success. The Textron issue, which was sold at a 15-year maturity, was a success because of the success of the Textron issue. N.Y. Stock Market Continues to be Sluggish, Dow Averages Lose Almost 14 Points in Week

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (NYT).—The stock market's September continued this week as a slow-gaited dirge, with prices drifting lower. The Dow-Jones industrial average dropped every day but one, losing a total of 13.92 points. It closed Friday at 947.32. Average daily trading since Labor Day has slumped from 16.30 million shares to 11.80 million.

At midweek the Dow-Jones was trumpeted as the impending American-Soviet trade agreement, estimated to be worth $5 billion, and Wednesday afternoon's trading became a slightly Cossack dance. But by Thursday morning the lively time faded and the dirge resumed.

Although fears of new tensions in the Middle East had been advanced earlier as an explanation for the market's lethargy, the more durable depressing factor appeared to be investors' concern over the economy and inflation.

Glamour issues, under selling pressure, were among the biggest losers. Amid reports that some institutions were abandoning them in favor of stocks with lower price-earnings ratios.

Pressure of high interest rates this week pushed yields on bonds for public housing to the highest level in more than a year.

Volume for the week came to 81,560,000. A total of 1,946 issues were traded of which only 523 were new issues. The 1,946 issues were traded of which only 523 were new issues.

Most active stock was American Telephone, which gained 1/8 to close at 45 1/2 on a volume of 918,000.

All this aside, however, the credit markets continued to be wan, despite an abortive attempt early in the week to push interest rates lower and shore up prices.

Observing what passed for trading action in the stock market Friday, Larry Wachtel, a vice-president of Bache & Co., could have been describing the scene at Wall Street when he called the performance "a dull, spiritless, wait-and-see kind of market."

Highlights of the week's economic news included: Mainland China plans to purchase more than 14.5 million bushels of American wheat. ... Boeing confirmed a sale of ten 707 jets to China for $125 million. ... Henry Ford 2d predicted sales of more than 11 million cars for the 1973 model year.

Auto sales in the first 10 days of September fell to 108,697 units from 165,001 a year before. The U.S. Interior Department received bids totaling $589 million for 14 Louisiana offshore oil tracts. Counterfeiting of Federal Reserve banknotes rose sharply in the first eight months of 1972 with a marked increase in bogus $10 and $20 notes, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the Secret Service reported.

Venezuela has dropped from first place to third in petroleum exports, as buyers switch to cheaper oil from Saudi Arabia and Iran. ... The Federal Reserve Board chairman, Arthur P. Burns, told a panel of the Joint Economic Committee that negotiations on international monetary reform would get under way promptly. He predicted a growing role for Special Drawing Rights, or "paper gold."

Business inventories in the United States rose by $730 million to a seasonally adjusted total of $185.3 billion at the end of July. ... This year's U.S. corn crop is estimated at 5.1 billion bushels, down 8 percent from the record 1971 harvest. Wheat production is estimated at 1.54 billion bushels, off 5 percent from last year.

U.S. Economists in China TOKYO, Sept. 17 (AP).—John Kenneth Galbraith and others of a delegation of the American Economic Association, have left Peking to visit Nanking, Hangchow and Shanghai, Hsinhua news agency reported. It said that in Peking the Americans met foreign office aides and discussed economic problems with Chinese economists.

Amex and Over-Counter

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 (NYT).—Trading on the American Stock Exchange continued light last week, with Champion Home Builders and Teleprompter topping the most-active list. Trading for the week stood at 14 million shares against 10.4 million for the week before when the market closed for Labor Day, Monday.

Amex index showed a net change for the week of 0.31, a drop to 26.15. The market set a high of 26.50 on Monday and a low of 26.04 on Friday. The number of blocks traded climbed to 40 from 38 the week before. Among them was a block of 10,000 shares of Allegheny Airlines, at 14 3/8, and 11,800 Kaufman & Broad warrants, at 27 1/2.

Over-the-counter trading remained weak, with Pennell Offshore at the top of the most-active list, closing at 9 5/8, off 1/8. Pennsylvania Life dropped 1/4 to close at 14 1/2 while Rank Organization fell 1/2, to 30 1/8.

Penn Life continued to react to the unfavorable stockholder reception of a proposed take-over of National General, a plan subsequently abandoned. The NASDAQ industrial index fell 2.44 to end the week at 128.80.

Swedes Tie Canada in Hockey, 4-4

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 17 (UPI).—A goal with 47 seconds left to play by Phil Esposito of the Boston Bruins gave Team Canada a 4-4 tie against the Swedish national ice hockey team tonight.

Team Canada, an all-star selection of National Hockey League professionals en route to Moscow for the second half of an eight-game series against Russia, had beaten the Swedes, 4-1, yesterday.

The next game for the Canadians is in Moscow on Friday. In the four games played in Canada, the favored Canadian squad was humbled by the Russians, losing twice, winning once and tying a tie. It was more humbling tonight, as the Swedish team, while a power in amateur hockey, was not rated on a par with the Russians, much less the Canadians.

Vic Hadfield of the New York Rangers scored first for Team Canada, at 10:30 of the first period. But the Canadian squad suffered from penalties, as Bill Goldworthy of the Minnesota North Stars got a total of 14 minutes, including a 10-minute misconduct penalty, at the end of the first period.

Lars-Göran Nilsson scored for Sweden, 1:12 into the second period, but Don Awrey put the visitors back into the lead on a slap shot from the blue line at 9:15.

Tord Lundstrom scored Sweden's second goal after 3:16, but only 16 seconds later Rick Martin of the Buffalo Sabres put Canada ahead again, 3-2.

Hans Hansson equalized the score for the third time for Sweden after 7:08, 3-3, and then Inge Hammarstrom scored to give the home team its first lead after 11:16 minutes.

Although Hadfield was serving a major penalty, Esposito broke through and made it 4-4 with only 47 seconds left.

"The boys need a rest today before we start the final preparations for the trip to Russia," Team Canada coach Harry Sinden said.

Sinden was not satisfied with his team's performance but said the referees prevented us from doing our best.

"But it was a good thing to see how European referees act. Now we know how it might be in Moscow," he said.

Hadfield's penalty, only six minutes from the end, was for hitting Swedish team captain Lars-Erik Sjöberg's face with his stick. Sjöberg was forced to abandon the game with blood spouting from his forehead. The referees were worse than I had expected. They gave us a number of penalties which were unfair," Sinden said.

Ashe and Emerson Advance To Final of Montreal Tennis

MONTREAL, Sept. 17 (AP).—Arthur Ashe of Miami defeated Tom Okker of the Netherlands, 7-5, 6-4, and Roy Emerson of Australia topped Egypt's Imam El-Shafel, 7-5, 6-4, yesterday to move into the final of the $50,000 Montreal International tennis tournament.

In the quarterfinals, El-Shafel upset Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., 7-6, 7-5, taking two successive breakers. Ashe ousted Cliff Fierman of Sarasota, Fla., 6-1, 6-4. Emerson stunned topseeded John Newcombe of Australia, 6-4, 6-3, and Okker hung on for a 4-6, 7-5, 6-2 victory over Cliff Drysdale of South Africa.

Nastase Mees Gorman, SEATTLE, Sept. 17 (AP).—Top-seeded Nastase of Romania and Tom Gorman of Seattle will meet in the singles final of the Rainier International tennis classic.

Nastase won his semifinal yesterday against Jaime Fillol of Chile, 7-6, 6-4, and Gorman beat Bob Hewitt of South Africa, 7-5, 6-4.

Mr. Court Gains CHARLOTTE, N.C., Sept. 17 (AP).—Margaret Court of Australia, No. 3 seed, defeated second-seeded Nancy Richey Gunter of Lake Livingston, Texas, 7-5, 6-2, in the semifinals of the $40,000 Four Roses Tennis Classic yesterday, giving her a final berth against top-seeded Billie Jean King.

Ms. King, of Palm-Aire, Fla., defeated Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-3.

Monzon Bout Reser BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 17 (AP).—Carlos Monzon of Argentina will defend his world middleweight boxing championship here against Benny Briscoe of the United States on Nov. 4, promoter Juan Carlos Lescure announced.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. (N.Y.T.)

Philadelphia's Steve Carlton won his 24th game of the season, with a 5-2 victory over Montreal. Friday night was home-run support from Greg Luzinski.

Luzinski provided the deciding run in the sixth with his 16th homer of the season with two-out and the score tied, 3-

Gary Gregor joined the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball League after playing out his option with the Portland Trail Blazers. The 27-year-old forward averaged 11.1 points a game last season. The transaction has to be approved by commissioner Walter Kennedy, who can order the 76ers to compensate the Trail Blazers.

At Oakland, Mike Epstein hit 26th homer, which was the 24th supported Vida Blue's two hit shutout as Oakland scored 4-0 victory over Texas. Epstein also doubled and scored Oakland's first run in the eighth. The pinch-hit single by Don Minchey.

Twins 11, Royals 1

Harmon Killebrew drove in five runs with a homer and a single and Bert Blayden pitched a shut-out for the Twins. The pitcher hit a home run and a single to win the game. Kansas City's Rod Carew had two hits to extend his hitting streak to 13 games and raise his league-leading batting average to .320.

Cardinals 12, Mets 5

In the National League, Cincinnati's big offensive display of the year, hit five home runs, including a pair by Jose home by pitcher But Hooton and scored an 18-6 home victory over New York. It was the most runs in history scored against the Mets in a single game. Five Mets pitchers gave up a record 11 walks and allowed 17 hits. Hooton, who hit his first major-league homer off Tom Seaver in the seventh run, third inning, recorded his 10th victory against 13 losses.

Cardinals 4, Pirates 0

At St. Louis, the Cardinals scored for four runs in the fifth inning to bank the eight-run victory over the Pirates in the pitching of Al Sanford in the 4-0 victory over Pittsburgh.

Kings 6, Padres 3

Joe Morgan and Johnny Bench drove home two runs apiece to lead Cincinnati to a 6-3 home victory over San Diego. Gary Carter blasted the Padres the first time in the inning. The Reds' Ross Grimsley's 10th victory against seven losses. The save was the 20th of the season for Carroll.

Republican Paradise

By Russell Baker

WASHINGTON.—The 1972 presidential campaign is the best thing that has happened to America since Joe Dimaggio. After years and years in which everything seemed to be going wrong, the campaign began and, ever since then, the world has been getting better every day.

To enjoy this startling improvement in life, it is only necessary to forget the existence of George McGovern and concentrate on President Nixon, who is, after all, the President and, for that reason, the sensible man to go to for a view of the world. And what a happy world he gives us, day after day.

Baker

Consider the dreariness of the situation before the campaign began. Bananas republics were refusing to cringe when America frowned. The dollar had been wiped out. Armed lunatics strolled about committing mass homicide. The lights kept going out. Heart disease was spreading. Saturday night was no fun anymore.

Then the Republicans opened their campaign. Immediately, life began to look brighter.

The Vietnam war ended almost immediately.

A week later, crime came to a more or less complete halt. The day after that, we all went to the supermarket and found that we could buy more for our money. It didn't feel that way, but Herbert Stein, Nixon's chief economist, said we would be crazy to believe everything we felt.

Believe! He urged us. Believe!

We believed. It had been so many years since there had been anything to enjoy, why shouldn't we have believed?

Miracles began to happen.

Young men cut their hair and put on real clothes again and looked just the way young men looked in the good old days of "Pleasant Parade," starring Jack Haley and Patsy Kelly, and ran around smiling and singing "God Bless America."

Young women quit calling for encores by unkempt men like Mick Jagger. Now they swooned for Tony Martin. What paradise! The way things were going, it looked as if Joe Dimaggio might turn up playing centerfield for the Yankees almost any day.

Soon America won the chess championship and would have swept the Olympics, too, except that Professor Kissinger didn't want to embarrass our good friends, the Russians and the Chinese, by making them look bad.

One day, nothing good happened anywhere in the world and it looked as if Nixon's magic spell had been broken. It turned out, however, that he had just been toying with us, for the very next day we learned that: (1) our property taxes would be cut; (2) the draft would be ended; (3) the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation would go off welfare; (4) automobile prices would be held at their present low levels; (5) air pollution would be abolished; and (6) cars, refrigerators and television sets all across America would stop breaking down.

Next day we learned that taxes would never again be raised.

We celebrated that night. As if by magic, our long-lost Liberace album was found on the parlor mantle, and as we listened to the kind of music America used to love, the children came in wearing their new flannel slacks and pleated plaid skirts and shiny shoes, and we discovered that they were 20 years younger.

With the dramatic improvement in the economy, the children all got excellent jobs, with good salaries and fine chances of promotion.

Then, the roof stopped leaking. "It's a miracle," someone said. But we all knew better. It was just good government of the sort Republicans give you when they are running for re-election.

Yesterday, medical costs went down. The Mafia turned over a new leaf, and a three-way light bulb which had decided to burn out at our house changed its mind after hearing from President Nixon.

It is beyond wonderful, this return of the old spirit America had long ago. It is ecstatic. If only we could devise some way to prevent Nixon from ever being re-elected so that he could go on and on, running and running, forever and ever.

THE OLD-FASHIONED WAY—The senior runners in the "Senior Olympics" gather at starting line for practice run.

17,880 Years of Legs Pounded the Streets

By Bernard Kirsch

BENSBERG-REPRATH, West Germany, Sept. 17 (UPI)—Had it really been a mass escape from an old-age home, the chase would have made old men of the pursuers.

Gray-haired and no-haired men ran through the streets yesterday, continuing their get-away from church bingo, pinocle addiction and hardening of the arteries. Little boys and girls lined the sidewalks and giggled and pointed at the grown men, some at least as old as their grandfathers, pranced about in short pants which showed off their multi-shaped but almost unanimously spindly legs.

Ambulances and oxygen tanks, strategically situated, did not go to waste as the last of the ancient marathoners came suffering home six hours after he started his health trip. What funny games grown people enjoy.

"Sometimes, they're called a bunch of crazy lunatics," said the wife of a 58-year-old athlete. For the six days prior to the marathon, she had watched her husband, the man she married, switch from a high-protein diet to a high-carbohydrate diet, just like Norwegian skiers do before a Nordic expedition.

What is crazy to some is a way of life to others, and chasing their youth is often the favorite pastime of older men. "Except most of the men here wish they were older," said Don Logan, 58, who can't wait until he's 60.

Some 603 men older than 40, and one as old as 81, gathered here this past weekend in this suburb of Cologne for the "Weltweitens Kampfe der Über 40 Jährigen Langstreckenläufer"—the world long-distance championships for anyone older than 40.

No, It Really Wasn't A Mass Escape From A Home for the Aged

It was the third time these games were held. Unlike the Olympics which come every four years, the veteran championships are held every two. Four years is a long wait for 80-year-old men.

Prizes are given for three age divisions—from 40 to 49, 50 to 59, and 60 and older, and "the older you get, the less competition you have," said Logan, a TWA corporate secretary who runs a marathon a month, training every day at 5:30 a.m. and inspires jokes by his wife.

The competitors, some who see the races as a good excuse for a social gathering, enjoyed calling the races "The Senior Olympics." To Mrs. Logan, they were "The Olympics for Old Men."

The program opened with a mere 5,000-meter jaunt, was followed by a 10,000-meter voyage on a hidden athletic field filled with the wives, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren of the veteran Olympians, and all was topped by the 35-mile 365-yard marathon, three times through the city. At least 17,880 years of pairs of legs pounded the streets. (That's 447 participants multiplied by 40 years.)

Bill Andberg, a 61-year-old veteran from Minneapolis, had come here with a group of 125 competitors, all belonging to the U.S. Masters—a track and field club for senior athletes. The squad had been in Europe for a month and went home this morning—What can top the Olympics?

Bill O'Shea, another marathoner, came from Rhode Island with the compliments of the U.S. Navy, for whom he works as a Catholic chaplain.

For some, the sole idea of the day's gathering was "to see how far you can go." Were past the age where you get real dedication, said Tim Kelly, who came here from Australia with 46 others who wanted to continue their athletic lives.

Mrs. Logan said, "I just hope my husband finishes his breathing."

He did, as did everyone else, and even recorded his best marathon time ever, 3 hours 9 minutes 57 seconds, 13 minutes faster than he did in Boston this year. Still, it was almost an hour behind Arthur Warshaw of Britain, whose legs were some 10 years younger. The winning time was 2:24.37, the Olympic victor last week in Munich recorded a 2:12.19, but Frank Shorter is only 25.

Running, or jogging, is a fairly new hobby to many of the marathon men, who took up the sport to either lose weight, or just keep in shape, and ended up giving in to the running mania. Logan, at 58, is for six years, is a familiar sight on the streets of Long Island, New York, where once-snapping dogs now understand him. Andberg never had real problems with dogs, for the "gray ghost" has one course which goes through a cemetery.

Arthur Lambert, father of a 9-year-old child, has been running long enough to become president of the German Jogging Association, but all the practice didn't help yesterday as he dropped out at the half-way point. Still, there are not many 31-year-olds who can run 13 miles. Nor have 3-year-old children call him "Daddy."

PEOPLE: Three Astronauts
Get Their Antel

A team of astronauts registered three kills to win the 28th one-shot antelope hunt on the central Wyoming plains near Lander Saturday.

The international event, started by a group of hunting enthusiasts, requires each participant to kill a fleet, fawn-colored animal with just one bullet.

The astronaut team consisted of Jack Schwigart, who downed his animal at 7 a.m., Joe Engle, who dropped his at 8:50 a.m., and James Lovell, who killed his at 2:15 p.m.

It was the first time since 1968 a team had registered three kills.

At Vernon Center, Minn., With Flatbush, plowing in his first world competition, became the first Austrian to win the world plowing matches. He edged Mads Bakken of Norway for the title Saturday in the 19th annual event.

The road to marriage was a steep one for Dennis George and Irene Holland. They climbed all the way up a mountain to be married. George, 25, and Miss Holland, 18, accompanied by members of their families and two ministers, climbed 3,344-foot Mt. Marcy, the highest peak in New York State, on Friday and camped overnight. They were married at dawn Saturday. George and his bride are, naturally, mountain climbers.
